McClellan Favors Large U. S. Navy

Will Vote for Expansion, Arkansas Congressman Declares

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Representative McClellan (Dem., Ark.), told the House he would vote for the naval expansion bill because the face of Europe "is being lifted by the force of autocratic power, and we must save our face."

"World powers are mobilizing and squaring off for a death struggle," he said. "We want none of it. We intend to stay over here and we are fully determined to keep the war over there and away from our shores."

"Therefore, I believe it is the duty of this government to build a navy through which our enemies cannot pass and an air fleet from which they cannot escape."

McClellan said that passage of the big naval bill "will be sufficient warning to those who would dare attempt to violate our sovereignty or invade our shores."

Has Confidence In F.D.R.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Norris, independent of Nebraska, told the senate Thursday that he opposed limiting the power of the president to reorganize government bureaus despite the fact that TVA could be included in such a shakedown.

Norris, known as the "father of the TVA," said he was confident the president would not disturb TVA in shuffling government bureaus under terms of the pending reorganization measure.

A close vote was expected on the Wheeler amendment to require the president to submit the reorganization orders to congress before they become effective.

Her teachers said that she was a good student. Her friends said disappointment over a love affair caused the act.

Four Arrested On Theft of Cattle

Will Be Given Circuit Court Trial at Nashville Next Week

NASHVILLE, Ark.—Harry Holt of Kirby and Hettie Marie Lee of El Dorado were placed in the county jail here by Deputy Sheriff W. T. Wingfield on a charge of cattle stealing. Wingfield said that the couple was butchering cattle running on the range and selling the beef throughout the county.

Enmet Elmer and Obie Atwood of Little Rock, arrested by State Police on charges of cattle rustling, were returned to the county jail here by Sheriff P. G. Coker to face charges of stealing three registered Jerseys valued at $500 from the Arkansas Orchards, Inc. The cattle were returned to the owners Monday when Glen F. Wallace, Orchard Company manager, identified them at the Atwood dairy. State Police refused a $100 reward for return of the cattle which Wallace posted shortly after the crime.

Sheriff Coker said the men indicated they would plead guilty in Circuit Court, which convenes here next week.

284 Persons Are Killed in 13-Hour Air Raid

Spanish Capital Sector Is Bombed by Rebel Planes

British Prime Minister Is Threatened With Grave Cabinet Crisis

RUSSIA CALLS MEET

France Pushes Armament Program in View of War Clouds

By the Associated Press

Eight insurgent air raids in 13 hours Thursday and Wednesday night took at least 284 lives in Barcelona, capital city of Spain.

Hundreds of persons were injured. Casualty lists were still incomplete.

Most of the victims were caught at the entrance of a subway station while en route to work.

The raiders came in waves, starting when the streets were jammed with demonstrators demanding that the government continue its resistance at all costs.

More bombs fell than in any previous air attack. Many buildings in the center of the city were struck and huge clouds of smoke from fires in shattered structures blotted out the clear sky. Many nearby towns were bombed.

The first insurgent bombs scattered thousands of Catalonians who earlier had massed around the president's palace to hear fiery speeches of trade union and political leaders assuring them of the loyalty of their army and the determination of their government.

British Cabinet Crisis
British Prime Minister Chamberlain seemed threatened Thursday with a grave cabinet crisis unless he adopts a more positive stand regarding Spain and Czechoslovakia.

In the meantime Soviet Foreign Minister Litvinoff invited powers other than Germany, Japan and Italy to discuss joint action aimed at "checking a further development of aggression and eliminating the increased danger of a new world massacre."

Tension between Poland and Lithuania eased somewhat Thursday by a statement by the Lithuanian defense minister that the government was prepared to close on a legal basis the border incident in which one Pole was killed.

Prepares for "Declaration"
Adolph Hitler, keeping a secret any designs on Czechoslovakia, prepared for the "declaration" for his Reichstag word, scheduled for Friday.

In China Thursday 80 Japanese planes bombed Manchung, China's principal air base.

In France, Premier Leon Blum announced an immediate increase in French armaments in view of Europe's war clouds.

France Promised Aid
Great Britain promised France naval aid if Italian and German forces in Spain managed France's North African communications. In return, Premier Leon Blum told his cabinet that France would maintain non-intervention in Spain.

By this decision, France kept her borders with government Spain shut to men and munitions and dropped her plans for an immediate effort with Britain to negotiate a Spanish truce. That the Spanish government appeared to have stopped the insurgents' drive toward the Mediterranean, at Port Vendres, closer to Spanish waters than the Toulouse base.

Chamberlain's answer to Blum's urgent appeal was taken to the French Foreign Office by Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador, before the prime minister announced to Commons that Britain would adhere to Spanish neutrality.

But, it was said, the armistice plan was held in abeyance and might be made at any time. French officials had said that France would have "no alternative" but to open her frontier to aid Spain's government unless Britain joined her.

The British government also asked more time to take a definite stand on Czechoslovakia. Blum had told London there was "not a moment to lose" in formation of a French-British agreement.

School Blast Aftermath Causes Spiritual Rebirth in New London

Experts Disagree As to the Effect On the Survivors

Worst School Disaster in History Occurred Year Ago Friday

MEMORIAL PLANNED

President Roosevelt to Be Asked to Lead the Ceremonies

By NEA Service

NEW LONDON, Texas—Just a year ago, on March 18, a tremendous gas explosion blasted life out of 278 children and 18 adults in a New London school.

Despite the fact it was one of the most terrible disasters ever to strike an American school, the rest of the country, busy with its own affairs, may have forgotten the horror of the catastrophe.

"But what of New London? What has been the result of the disaster in this little 'Texas town' which stands like an island in a veritable sea of oil and gas derricks? What have been the psychological effects on parents who lost their children, and on pupils who survived the blast?"

On the physical side, a pretentious new $300,000 school building is nearing completion. A local committee is making a drive for a towering memorial. Others are waging a fight for highway beautification.

Religious Awakening
But something more important than that is happening. It might be called a spiritual rebirth, and church and Sunday School attendance attests its arrival.

It is as though an entire city, small though it is, has turned to religion to find comfort for the loss of sons and daughters who went to their deaths so early in life, leaving empty chairs behind in hundreds of homes.

The Rev. R. L. Jackson, pastor of the Methodist church, points out that 64 persons attended his Sunday School on the week before the disaster. Now more than 200 attend the services in the Methodist church alone every Sunday.

Part of the credit for this spiritual awakening goes, incidentally, to John Lumpkin. He lost a child in the explosion, and now he virtually takes the responsibility for the regular attendance of every New London church-goer.

Choose Their Own Churches
With the help of employees of the oil company he heads, Lumpkin sends a big bus through the district's scattered oil camps every Sunday, picking up passengers and depositing them at the door of the church of their preference. Later he takes them home.

And what of the children? Concerning the damage to bodies of the survivors there can be no difference of opinion. One hundred and eighty-four were injured. Of these, 137 suffered only minor hurts. Of the more seriously injured, 25 may prove to have suffered permanent disfigurement.

But what happened to the minds of the survivors is another and more controversial matter. The Child Welfare Service, after a survey of all the survivors, reported that the blast caused considerable psychological reaction among the children.

Results of the Disaster
The report showed that 125 were "emotionally involved"; that 75 "face the possibility of requiring the services of a psychiatrist"; that there were instances of boys and girls "going to pieces" emotionally long after the disaster.

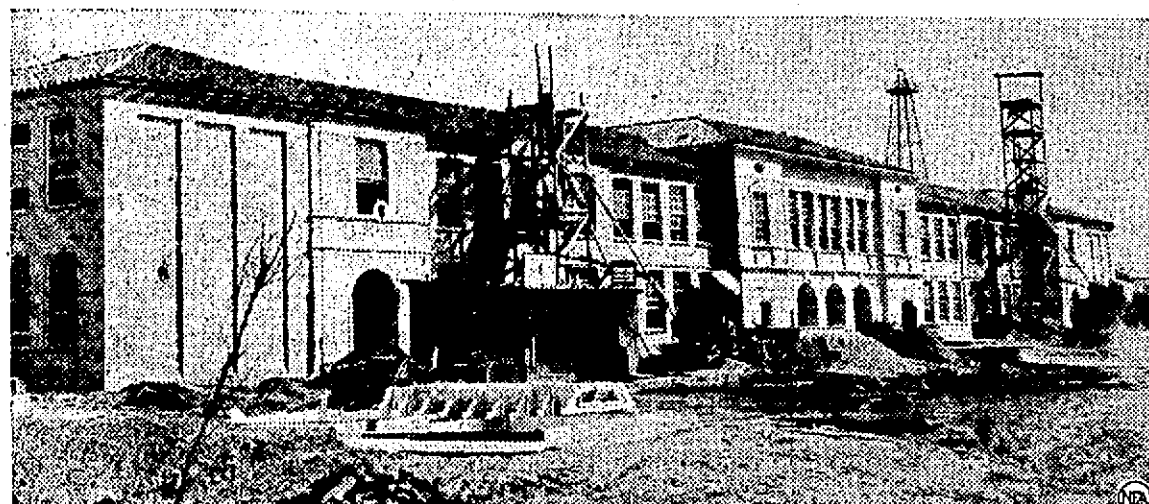

C. A. Tate, principal of the school, does not agree, however, that the emotional disturbances as a result of the explosion are as serious as pictured in some quarters.

"The students may refer to the explosion in dating some event," he says, "but they use it in the same sense as they would place a date by saying 'before or after Christmas.'"

Another school spokesman flatly asserts: "There is no neurosis at New London."

"Won't Happen Again"
Regardless of the results of the disaster, those responsible for building

The partially completed school building at New London, Texas, above, is being built to replace the structure which was wrecked by a mysterious gas explosion on March 18, 1937. The new school is as blastproof as human ingenuity can make it. There are no gas pipes into the building, all heating being supplied from a boilerhouse.

John Lumpkin, above, lost a child in the school explosion. Now he provides a bus to take worshippers to Sunday School every week, and is given credit for part of New London's spiritual revival.

Happy, smiling, with apparently little thought of the disaster which killed so many of their friends a year ago, New London boys and girls are pictured above as they head for home in a school bus after a day in the classroom. Authorities disagree on whether the students suffered psychological effects from the horror of the explosion. One school official declares "There is no neurosis in New London."

Vote Construction Fund; Bill Would Kill Civil Service

$1,500,000 Building Fund to Come From Liquor and Wine Taxes

SENATE GETS ACTION

Amendment Adopted to Invalidate 1937 Auto Testing Law

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The house completed its first major task of the 78 to 6, a bill to provide a construction fund of approximately $1,500,000 for a state tuberculosis sanatoria.

The bill, which now goes to the senate, carries a section to nullify the state civil service system by diverting the civil service operations fund to the sanatoria building program.

An increase in the state liquor and wine tax provided for in the bill, was cited as a major source of revenue for the building program.

The bill also provides for transfer to the sanatoria fund of certain unexpended balances in the charities fund, school supervision fund, general revenue sales tax fund, income tax fund, state civil service appropriation, and a surplus in the liquor tax fund created by 1937 tax increases.

Senate Action Thursday
The senate Thursday tabled a concurrent house resolution which would have asked Governor Bailey to appear before a joint session of the assembly to explain his plan for removing tolls from highway bridges.

Other action by the senate follows: Adoption of a concurrent memorial urging congress to authorize minting of mills for states collecting sales taxes. Defeated a proposed amendment to the Barney toll and highway bridge bill which would have taken from counties the highway fund of one-fourth cent per gallon in gasoline tax turnback and use the money to aid city street improvement districts and bridge improvement districts.

Adopted an amendment to the administration's toll bridge bill which would invalidate the 1937 auto testing law.

Vesey Asks Gas Tax Cut
The House Judiciary Committee returned without recommendation a bill which would reduce the state gasoline tax from six and one half cents to four and one half cents per gallon.

Vesey of Hempstead county, author of the bill, said the "people of Arkansas are putting up with one of the highest taxes in the nation." He replied to arguments that the reduction would violate the refunding act of 1934 by saying "if you're not already impairing that contract with other proposed legislation before you then I don't know what impairing means."

Details of handling of a secret fund contributed by wholesale liquor dealers to finance State Revenue Department undercover operations were disclosed before the Arkansas Senate Wednesday afternoon by Revenue Commissioner Z. M. McCarroll, who submitted records showing contributions totaling $4,500 since January 15.

Contributions were made by the Arkansas Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association through its secretary, John Dillon of Little Rock, at the rate of $1,500 a month. The money is deposited to the credit of Mr. McCarroll in a Little Rock bank.

"I would be delighted to have the legislature make an appropriation to take the place of this fund," McCarroll said. "It was created to overcome an almost insurmountable emergency. My only interest is to enforce the liquor laws of Arkansas. We are doing a maximum amount of good with the funds available. I believe we've been able to hold down liquor law violations."

Six Undercover Agents
Records submitted by the commissioner showed that the first $1,500 contribution was deposited January 15, a second February 8 and a third March 8. Including the March 8 deposit, there was a balance of $2,162.57 in the account as of March 9.

Six undercover agents are paid from the fund. Five receive $125 a month and the other $150 a month, the records showed. At the request of Mr. McCarroll, Lieut. Gov. Bob Bailey, presiding facturer.

The jury answered "yes" to the question "do you the jury recommend that the defendant, John Henry Seadlund, alias Peter Anders, be punished by death?"

The case was given to the jury at 4:45 p. m. (CST). They reached their verdict at 6:15 p. m. It was announced 20 minutes after Judge John P. Barnes, attorneys and Seadlund, handcuffed to two guards, arrived in court.

If Great Britain Sends Eden to the U. S.

THERE is talk in the political haunts of London that Anthony Eden will be sent to the United States as ambassador to Washington. If England is determined to move her youthful former foreign secretary out of the European picture there is no spot on earth where he would find a warmer reception than in the United States and Canada.

In fact, it is more than likely that this dashing, debonair, 40-year-old statesman who matched wits with the craftiest internationalists of Europe would be completely lionized in this country. His charm is undeniable and the fact that he was sacrificed on the altar of Britain's desire to conciliate Italy—with American people feeling as they do about the Italian dictatorship—would make Eden a popular hero here.

THE man himself is a fascinating figure. He was born the third son of the seventh baronet of West Auckland, left Eton when he was 17 to join the King's Royal Rifle corps, emerging three years later as the British army's youngest brigade major and wearing a military cross. After the war he spent four years at Oxford, specializing in Oriental languages—a study which once enabled him to address the Aga Khan in fluent Persian.

In 1923 he won a seat in Parliament and became Austen Chamberlain's parliamentary secretary, stepped up to be under secretary, was named special envoy in charge of disarmament negotiations, because the brilliant "fild manager" of Britain's search for peace and then foreign secretary.

Eden clashed with Mussolini over Italy's conquest of Ethiopia and the two have been bitter political, and probably personal, enemies since. Eden fought the rising tide of totalitarianism in Europe and wanted his country to put up a strong front against it. That might have meant war and Britain chose the simpler way of a friendly gesture toward Italy, and Eden resigned.

IT IS impossible to imagine Eden staying out of public life, because England doesn't waste her statesmanship. Eden is an unusual mixture of fashion plate and direct, angry action. He rides, plays tennis and paints. His topper rides his head at a jaunty angle in the stiffest breeze and his trousers never lose a razor-edge crease. Married and the father of two children, he still fascinates his feminine constituents. He is a connoisseur of wines and likes Garbo on the screen. His temper used to be ungovernable and his profanity voluble. He controls both now.

If Great Britain decides to send Eden here, he won't lack for a royal welcome. We could do lots worse things than adopt him.

Masculine Speech

YOUR modern college youth is a red-blooded, he-man fellow and there isn't much chance of his being taken for anything else. He even carries his masculinity program into his grammar.

For, according to a recent linguistic survey, he would rather be ungrammatical than conspicuous, and much prefers the chance of being taken for an illiterate than the possibility of being considered pedantic.

He avoids words like adorable, divine, exquisite, naughty and precious for the same reason that his slang vocabulary doesn't contain "duddy" and "goody." They're too feminine. And he deliberately drops down to "It's me" when he actually knows the correct "it is I," because he is afraid of a lifted eyebrow in his crowd, afraid of being set apart. He prefers to be trite, colloquial and slangy because he prefers to be inconspicuous.

Well, it's at least simple, direct and unaffected. It avoids the "genteelisms" and the stilted affectations of other periods. And when the college man finally needs to use the more subtle discriminations in his speech, he probably can find them.

Special Attention to Lungs Necessary in the Care of Measles

(No. 478)
Certain parts of the body are affected more by measles than are others. The eyes tend to become inflamed and irritated. Therefore, the patient should wear dark glasses. If the eyes become sticky, they may be cleaned with the ordinary boric acid solution. If, however, the inflammation is even slightly severe, the attention of a physician should be had as soon as possible.

The child with measles tends to have some irritation of the throat and lungs. His response to this irritation is a cough. For that reason a sedative cough mixture may be prescribed by the doctor to prevent irritation. All symptoms related to the lungs must be carefully watched so that pneumonia may not get too much of a start if that comes as a secondary complication.

The diet of the child sick with measles depends on the amount of fever. As long as there is fever, the diet should be light, including milk and cereals, preferably soft cereals without any harsh, irritating bran. After the temperature becomes normal, the amount of nutritious food may be increased but the taking of roughage and irritating foods should be postponed until the child is clearly on the way to recovery.

In the beginning of an attack of measles there is usually fever. This may be high, reaching 103 or 104 degrees, under which circumstances the physician may wish to prescribe suitable remedies to bring down the temperature. However, after the first few days the temperature tends to fall. In the control of the temperature, the body may be sponged with warm water. After the sponging, the body should be dried and powdered with some bland talcum powder to prevent irritation of the skin.

Plenty of time should be allowed for the child to convalesce from the attack of measles because any infectious disease may tend to weaken the growing child. There must be plenty of rest, suitable diet containing iron, calcium and important mineral salts as well as vitamins.

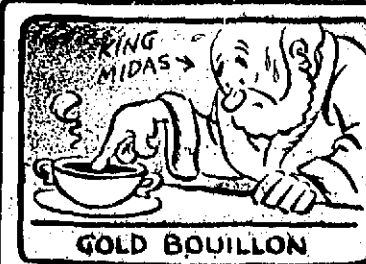

Before the child is permitted to return to school, he should be free from cough, the weight should be normal and the nutrition should be good. Special attention should also be paid to the condition of the nose, throat, sinuses and the ears.

Certainly no child should be permitted to return to school after an attack of measles as long as there is any extensive secretion of material from the nose, throat or ears.

It is probably the prevailing conservatism of our colleges and universities which is in large part responsible for their reputation for radicalism.

—Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president, University of Michigan.

The Gold Situation In a Nutshell or I Surrender, Dear

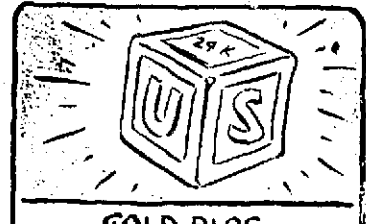

GOLD BOUILLON

1 ALL THE GOLD IN THE WORLD COMES FROM THREE SOURCES: (a) OUT OF THE GROUND, (b) OUT OF OLD SOCKS AND MATTRESSES, AND (c) OUT OF SOVIET RUSSIA.

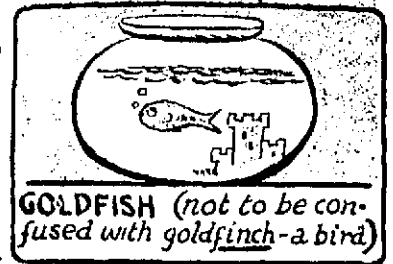

2 THE GOLD FOUND IN THESE PLACES IS TAKEN TO THE U.S. TREASURY WHERE IT IS PURCHASED AT A PRICE WHICH THE GOVERNMENT FEELS IS ADEQUATE TO INSURE ITSELF A GOOD, SAFE LOSS.

3 THE GOLD IS THEN DIVIDED INTO TWO PARTS. THE FIRST PART IS POUNDED INTO A FINE DUST AND IS DISTRIBUTED THROUGH FEDERAL BANKS, TO BE USED IN PUTTING THE GILT EDGING ON GILT-EDGE SECURITIES. THIS IS CALLED "CREDIT."

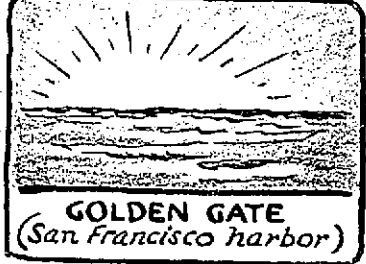

GOLD BLOC

4 THE REST OF THE GOLD IS PLACED IN HUGE VATS, WHERE IT IS WASHED, SCRUBBED AND POLISHED UNTIL IT SHINES LIKE GOLD. IT IS THEN WRAPPED IN CELLOPHANE, MARKED "DO NOT OPEN TILL CHRISTMAS," AND DEPOSITED IN A COOL, DRY VAULT. THIS IS CALLED "STERILIZATION."

GOLDFISH (not to be confused with goldfinch—a bird)

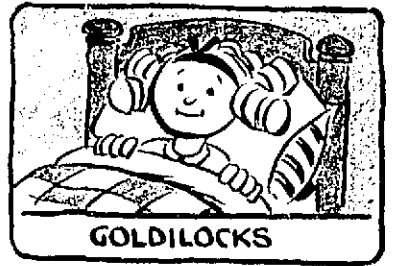

5 THESE PROCESSES CONTINUE UNTIL ALL THE GOLD IN THE WORLD IS IN THE HANDS OF THE U.S. GOVERNMENT, WHEREUPON THE PRESIDENT (OR DEALER) MUST RAISE HIS HAND AND SHOUT, "BINGO!" AT THIS POINT ALL PLAY CEASES AND THE HEADS OF FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS MUST STOP WHATEVER THEY ARE DOING AND COME TO WASHINGTON, WHERE ALL THE GOLD IN THE WORLD HAS BEEN PLACED IN ONE BIG PILE FOR THE BENEFIT OF NEWSPAPER PHOTOGRAPHERS. THIS IS CALLED "INFLATION"—OR "DEFLATION."

GOLDEN GATE (San Francisco harbor)

6 ALL THE GOLD ("CREDIT" AND "STERILIZED") IS THEN MADE INTO BEADS. THESE ARE PASSED OFF ON UNSUSPECTING INDIANS IN EXCHANGE FOR BEARSKINS AND CLAMSHELLS, WHICH BECOME THE NEW MEDIUM OF EXCHANGE AND ARE REALLY MUCH EASIER TO UNDERSTAND.

Set Baby's Routine by Clocking Cradle Days

(No. 40)
Many mothers want to know about the best time to begin training their babies. The answer is, just exactly the minute they are born. Does it sound silly? Well, it isn't, not so terribly, when we consider that babies want to sleep and eat all the time anyway. They are real slackers, letting everybody else work while they take it easy. They are not thinking, of course, just feeling, but you are to discover that all character is based on feelings.

Baby wants to be comfortable, and all his life he will put that first. Now it is his little body that needs comfort and care, but it won't be long until his mind will demand that same privilege of comfort and well-being, too.

So here comes the great secret. Regularity. The book name is "routine." If baby is fed every three hours, he will learn to wake on the dot, then go to sleep again. Regularity of feeding thus has a double value, it gives his stomach time to digest one meal before the next is offered, and it also sets

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE MAIDWELL—beginning the stand-in.
HILDEGARDE THORVALD—an artist who loved money first.
LUCILLE—she met his most difficult case.
Vest-idiot: Connie gets a line on a job, finds her prospective employer ill, and is sitting down to dinner in the exclusive restaurant when a lady asks her the price of her coat!

CHAPTER VII
"PRICE?" murmured Constance, monosyllabic in her amazement at the matter-of-fact bluntness of the question.
"Why, yes . . . This is a Bartlett model, isn't it?" the plump lady pursued, mentioning the name of the designer from whom Constance had brought the gray coat. She reached out to test the fabric between her fingers.
"Yes . . . Why, yes, it is."
"You wear it beautifully."
"You are very kind," said Constance between amusement and surprise, and mentioned the price she had paid for the coat.
"Thank you." The lady sat back with what almost amounted to a nod and smile of dismissal.

The man had lighted a cigaret, meanwhile glancing from his companion to Constance with a faintly raised eyebrow, as if savoring something delightfully humorous in the situation.
Constance swept him with a chill gray-blue glance that went completely through and beyond him, and turned away.
The line ahead of her had broken up. She advanced—the bouffant skirt of the gray coat rippling with her buoyant, high-headed walk—toward the table near the stage.

As she crossed the floor, a beautifully dressed blond girl who passed her in a leisurely saunter murmured, "Gosh, kid! You'd never have got that model if I could have worn it."
Hardly believing her ears, Constance went on toward the dark little man who still waited for her.
"I am Miss Maidwell," she explained. "Miss Constance Maidwell. I was told—"
"But yes, of course," he cried impatiently. "You took your time about getting here . . . Him! Constance! . . . The name will do very nicely. And you wear the model well. The hat a bit more tilted, perhaps . . . Thank God you can walk!"
Walk! Constance thought feverishly. Took my time?

FOR one blank moment she wondered if every one in this place were crazy or only she, herself.

"I began to be afraid," the little man was going on hurriedly, "that Miss O'Dare would not be able to find anyone to take Lucille's place—the height—the coloring—the carriage—the distinction. To model her things, none of the others have the—shall I say 'the atmosphere'?"

Slowly the true absurdity of the situation was dawning upon Constance. Now, at an almost imperceptible nod from the little man, a sly red-haired girl with sultry dark lashes and a sulky mouth mounted the little stage in a vivid green evening gown with silver sequins and strolled gracefully across—turning this way and that—and then descended the short curve of stairway at the other end to make her leisurely way among the tables. At last Constance understood.

"I'm afraid," she began, suppressing a giggle.
"Do not worry." The little man patted her arm reassuringly.
"When I saw you come in, I said to myself, 'That one—she has what it takes.' . . . But I tell you what: since you have not rehearsed with us, follow Gertrude among the tables for a while—the tall blond one, now in the tailcoat with silver fox. She is an old hand. Watch what she does, and you cannot go wrong. Always remember to smile—just enough, but not too much. Never, never let the muscles of the face freeze. . . . Later we shall try you on the stage."

"But—" Constance began . . . This was preposterous.
"Come, come!" he cut her off curtly. "We waste too much time. And you have yet four costumes to model . . . The bag in the left hand, lightly, please. And—yes, the gloves are quite correct. It was preposterous—but what if it?"

CONSTANCE knew that she walked beautifully. Derek had often told her so. And all her life she had a gift for mimicry which had been the delight of her friends. Surely she could saunter, turn and smile—saunter, turn, and smile as easily as those other girls. . . . After all, one was paid real money for this sort of thing. And for the first time in Constance's life money seemed desperately important. Suppose she showed him that she had what it took?

Without finishing the protest that was on her lips, she joined the little group of girls who circled among the tables, strolling, turning, reversing, and smiling—"just a little—not too much."

Several times she wondered what Derek would say if he saw her here—Derek, who had brought her here because it was a good idea to go where the best people were.
Once the blond model the little man had called "Gertrude" stopped to chat briefly as she passed in her measured stroll.
"Papa Anton likes us to group sometimes," she explained in an undertone. "He wants us to seem as informal and natural as possible."
"Papa Anton," Constance gathered, was the bearded little man in charge of the fashion show.
"He was fit to be tied," Gertrude went on, "when no one showed up at rehearsal to stand in for Lucille."
"What made him—how did he know I had come to take Lucille's place?" Constance asked guardedly.

"Oh, I suppose because Lucille modeled that coat in the store the day it came in . . . Well, I'll be seeing you."
The girl strolled on.
Constance took time to wonder about the other girl who was to have taken Lucille's place. Suppose she came yet?
But no one did appear. So Constance went on and on, watching the more experienced models carefully at first, until she knew that she was better perfect.

THERE had been four costumes set aside for the absent Lucille—all of which admirably suited Constance's proudly held little figure and the clear petunia-petal of her skin and blue-black of her hair.

She was modeling the black cocktail frock, pausing by the table on the stage to light a cigaret in the jade holder as Papa Anton had directed her when she saw a trimly tailored young woman come swiftly across the room to speak to the director of the show as if in troubled inquiry. Papa Anton turned to her with a startled face. Constance's heart sank as she saw that they were both watching her with narrowed attention.

Could this be the girl who was to have substituted for Lucille? But no. This girl was too tall to have worn Lucille's models. . . . The young woman and Papa Anton talked together for a moment longer; then she turned and made her way decisively out of the room.

Constance watched her go with an uneasy feeling that she had not seen the last of her.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

The City Dweller Takes Up Farming.

If you happen to be a world-weary city dweller, and have occasionally meditated about the chance of getting away from it all and settling down on a farm, you might do well to read "R. F. D." by Charles Allen Smart (Norton: $2.50). In fact, you might do well to read it anyway, for it's an intelligent, interesting sort of book.

For Mr. Smart did precisely that. He fell heir to a small and rather worthless farm near Chillicothe, O., decided that he was fed up with life in Manhattan, and—a citizen of Ohio to make a farmer out of himself. This book is his report on what happened.

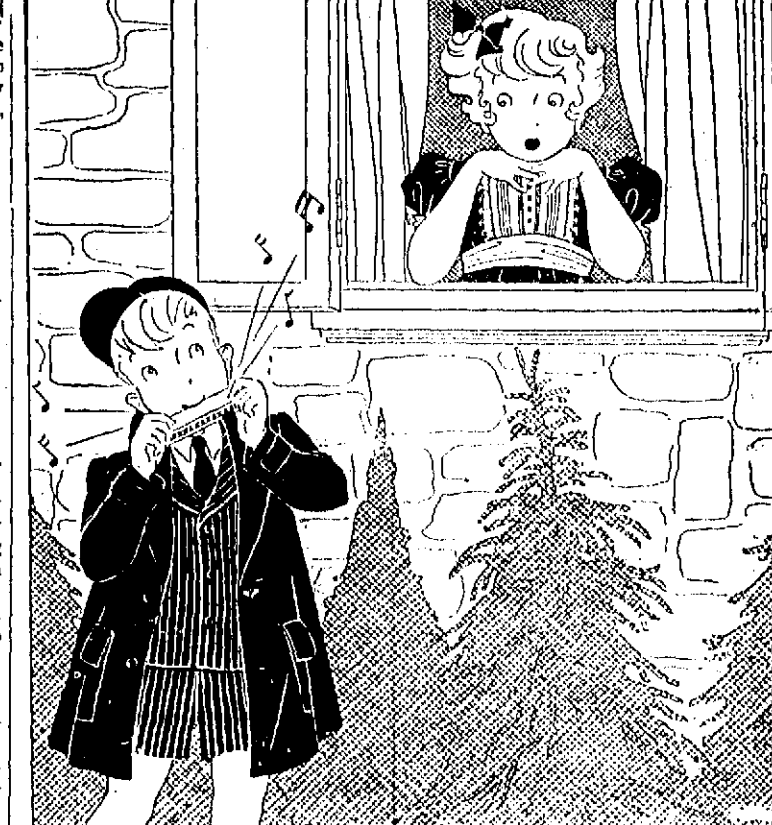

To date, Mr. Smart has not succeeded in making farming pay—in fact, at any rate. He has some income from securities, and he also sells his literary products, and so far he has had to plow a good bit of this money into the land. But in other ways the venture has paid him richly.

For farming as a way of life he has a deep fondness. It is hard work, but rewarding work. He feels that he is happier on his farm than he was in the city—happier, and somehow more closely in touch with the mainsprings of life.

Probably he is a much better writer than farmer; at any rate his book is very good, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It contains, incidentally, some pretty acute and intelligent remarks about the farmer's "rugged individualism" and the place of the farmer in a collectivized economy.

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

They All Want to Duplicate Success of 'Snow White'

HOLLYWOOD.—No sooner was it fully realized that Walt Disney's "Snow White and Seven Dwarfs" would make millions than nearly all the major studios began figuring on feature-length cartoons.

Some of them are ambitious enough to expect to have animated features in the theaters by next Christmas—yet none of them has a story, nor any-thing resembling the staff and equipment that Disney has assembled. Only Warner Brothers have a man who seems capable of competing with Disney. He's Leon Schlesinger, maker of Looney Tunes and Merrie Melodies. And Schlesinger doesn't want to make features.

One powerful studio, I'm told by certain artists who should know, has set out with checkbook and blandishments to lure away all the Disney animators and directors who can be hired. The response has been astonishing—and to Disney. If he knew about it—hearthening. Confronted with fat offers from the big studio, his artists and technicians have answered with raspberries. Such a demonstration of mass loyalty is without precedent in the whole history of movietown, the double-crossroads of creation.

Disney Runs Show
It isn't difficult to understand the attitude of the Disney workers, as one of them explained it to me. The ax is whistling over all of Hollywood. Thousands of persons have been fired, and are still being bounced, in a worse production slump than was brought by the depression. Some studio departments have been eliminated, others merged, in a desperate drive for retrenchment. Bankers control most of the studios and can dictate economics. . . .

But bankers don't worry Disney. He and his brother own every dime worth of their concern. They didn't have to ask anybody's permission to gamble $1,000,000 and more than three years' time on an animated feature which the rest of the industry regarded as an artistic but commercially futile experiment.

Disney employees recall how, shortly before the bank holiday, their boss distributed an $80,000 cash bonus. They remember, too, how Disney defied all the studio heads who in the face of their greatest emergency decided that all wages had to be cut 50 per cent. And today, while payrolls elsewhere are being whittled, they feel pretty secure in the reports which indicate that the picture they recently finished likely will make more money than any other movie ever filmed.

Those are some reasons why the hands at the mouse-and-duck factory a rhythm in that sleepy little mind of his. The first steps in discipline have rhythm or "routine" as a basis.

Time blacked off to suit your day, but so arranged that baby will expect special attention only at definite intervals, will help you wonderfully. He will yell lustily if this is interfered with and feeding time is late, but after all he has a right to be heard. Maybe he will waken too soon, say a quarter of an hour before feeding time. It is always a temptation to furse him then, or give him his bottle.

What do a few minutes' difference make anyway, you wonder? Well, this being my story, I stick to it. In the long run you will be ahead if you let him have a little lung exercise, which he needs anyway, and wait until the clock strikes the hour.

His meals, his bath, his airing, and his entire program, if kept to a fixed rule, will help you immeasurably. Besides this is his first taste of conformity to family affairs. Never mind how he knows. But he does know in a very short time, that he gets things when they arrive and not before.

It does sound terrifically set, doesn't it, and even mean? But really it isn't. You are going to have a sweeter-tempered baby, and no doubt a healthier one, if you put a faithful little clock on the job, and trust to its wisdom.

Kidneys Must Flush Out Acids—Poisonous Waste

Kidney ailments won't wear away—and too dangerous to ignore—you've got to help these delicate organs function properly again. It's the same way with bladder trouble. Healthy Kidneys filter the acids and poisons and then the bladder discharges them from the body. Backache—getting up nights—moist palms—scanty, high colored urine—rheumatic pains are some of the symptoms.
Ask your druggist for a 35 cent box of safe, gentle Ramon's Brownie Pills for the Kidneys. Be sure you get Ramon's, the original and genuine.

The Woman With the Pot O'Paint

Now rises up the woman with a purpose in her face. And "touches up" the various belongings of the place. A red is on her shoulder where she slid her sleeve on high. A yellow on her temple where she tried to wipe her eye. The baby's face is waffled where it went against the screen. But the woman with the pot o'paint, unconscious of her blane, still "touches up" the various belongings just the same. Then pick her out a lonesome day and let her home full swing. And the woman with the paint pot is the terror of the spring. Raphael was rapid and his genius was intense. But he couldn't put more paint than could the woman on a fence. Michael Angelo was noted for his darning, it is said. But did he ever dare to paint a china door-knob red? Bonheur could paint a powerful horse or gentlemanly jow. But you ought to see the painted cut that's living with us now!

and only reached the heights through a strong will and determination backed up by much hard work. Dr. Champlin gave a most interesting account of the life of Jeanette McDonald, telling of her triumph over the screen and of her lovely voice and happy marriage. Strange as it may appear and contrary to the general opinion, the three actresses discussed have each only had one marriage in their lives, and marriages that have proven real partnerships in life. During the short business period, the motion was made and adopted that the lovely luncheon tendered her club on Monday by Mrs. M. H. Barlow, be kept a part of the club minutes by having the press placed in the secretary's book. Following the study, the hostesses assisted by dainty little Miss Betty Jones and Mrs. Gus Haynes served an emptying salad course with tea and hot rolls and individual cakes topped with the shamrock in honor of the approaching St. Patrick's birthday. Guests for this delightful meeting were Mrs. M. H. Barlow and Mrs. W. B. Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Halbert Cofield announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret to Odie L. Deffen, only son of Mrs. Henry Deffen. The wedding was solemnized on Friday morning, March 11th at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Walker, pastor of the Emmet Methodist church. Only immediate members of the families were present. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Deffen will be at home in Emmet, where Mr. Deffen is connected with the Arkansas Louisiana Gas company.

Among the popular books on the rental shelves of the Hope library are the following "And So Victoria" by Wilkin, is an outstanding historical novel, "The Hurricane" by Nordhoff and Hall, a masterpiece written with in our time. ## Birthday Party Is Held for Bennett

Early Nevada County Settler Observes His 82nd Anniversary

On last Sunday, March 13, J. M. Bennett, affectionately known as "Uncle Bub," observed his eighty-second birthday, cheered by many callers, a veritable feast, and the inner knowledge that so far he has "fought a good fight . . . kept the faith."

One of Sutton community's early settlers, "Uncle Bub" has a host of friends over Nevada county, and adjoining counties. Though the years have taken their toll of physical strength from him, the staunch spirit of this "Grand Old Man" is undiminished; his eyes hold a cheerful, alive, warmly human sparkle, expressive of a mind keen and undeteriorated by the corrosive effects of longevity so often brings to the aged.

Well known to the Baptists of this and near-by counties, Uncle Bub is a pillar of strength in that denomination, being a leader in Sunday school and general church work.

Present at the birthday gathering were approximately 30 relatives and friends. Several presents were given him, for which he expressed appreciation.

The day was spent mainly in talking over old times—the yesterdays—with old friends. Everyone enjoyed to the fullest the time spent in company with this kind old man.

At noon, around the table, profound silence reigned while Mrs. Audrey Fore brought in the birthday cake topped with 82 gleaming candles, and while Uncle Bub blew out the twinkling tapers with a gesture of—was it nonchalance—for those eighty-two years now past.

Uncle Bub was born on March 13, 1856. He has been a resident of this vicinity for many years, and Sutton community feels justly proud of him. Present at his birthday gathering were the following:

Mrs. J. E. Dilard, Rosston; Mrs. Rosa Brown, Water; Mrs. Lela Sutton, Rosston; Mrs. D. L. Dillard, Hope; Mrs. Julia Sutton, Emmet; Mrs. T. A. Bennett, Emmet; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bennett, Prescott; Mr. and Mrs. George Fore, Emmet; Mrs. Neil Fore and children, Emmet.

Mrs. Margaret Fore, Waterloo; Mrs. Edgar Bustain and daughter, Waterloo; Mrs. Charlie Murray and daughter, Emmet; Mrs. C. L. Bennett and children, Emmet; Misses Ada Gene and Dana Ruth Starks, Emmet; Rev. J. W. Brown, Emmet; Jesse Stockton, Boughton; Brigham Palmer, Emmet.

ment on Czechoslovakia. French officials viewed Britain's promise to work with France to keep Mediterranean communications open a logical sequence to the Nyon anti-piracy accord and the growing military and naval collaboration between London and Paris.

Concession Made
Italy announced withdrawal of troops sent several weeks ago to reinforce two army corps stationed in African Libya, and the gesture was interpreted as indication that Italian-British friendship talks were making satisfactory progress.

Reduction of the Libyan garrison was one of the concessions Britain sought from Italy as a basis of rapprochement.

Diplomatic circles believed announcement of Italian-British agreement might come in a few days. Lord Perth, British ambassador, is to see Foreign Minister Count Ciano on Friday for what may be a conclusion of their peace talks.

In Austria Jewish stores were plundered. Trucks drove up to them and carted away clothing, perfume, shoes, hats, soap, toothpaste.

Viennese police took the oath to Hitler before Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, now their commander.

Courses in National Socialism opened. "Heil Hitler" was made the official greeting in all schools. Five big Viennese theaters closed.

Brownshirt Austrian "SA" troops were being reorganized with Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of Austria, as chief. The Alpinist Association, owner of many mountain ski huts, was being incorporated in the Hitler Youth organization.

A new Nazi commissioner was named to the national library—one of the Hapsburgs' and Vienna's greatest prizes.

All women's organizations were liquidated.

Meanwhile, citizens are going ahead with their plans for the memorial, which will be in the form of a towering arch to be erected through voluntary public subscriptions. The current epidemic of that particular brand of comedy not so long ago known as slapstick and at present designated as sophistication, which had its regeneration from the silent days in such pictures as "My Man Godfrey" and "It Happened In Paris" (mentioned in this instance merely as two of the films of this type which met with such favor everywhere) has its manifestation in "Breakfast For Two" starring Barbara Stanwyck, Herbert Marshall, Glenda Farrell, Eric Blom, and many other prominent names in the supporting cast, now at the New Theater and through Friday. Short subjects on this two-day program are the Henry-Miny-Mo cartoon a new series just released, the "Stranger Than Fiction" travel reel and Memtone musical "Bargain Matinee."

Opera Helps the Germans Conserve

BERLIN.—(AP)—Puccini's opera, "La Boheme," is being used to aid in Germany's self-sufficiency campaign.

In movie houses throughout the Reich a propaganda strip is running which has for its motif the scene between Marcel, the painter, and Rudolph, the writer, when these two roommates are trying to heat their cold studio.

Rudolph has just thrown his unpublished manuscript into the fire with the words, "This is a heavy loss for this century," when a new figure, unknown to Puccini, bolts up.

It is an agent of Goering's Four Year plan.

"Gentlemen," he exclaims, "just imagine if everybody were to act in so senseless a manner! Millions worth of scrapped paper would go up in smoke."

Unusual opportunities to make money at home await several far-sighted, promotional-minded poultry raisers in every community. Through building a popular demand for high quality eggs with "controlled interiors" a four to eight cent per dozen premium for eggs may be secured.

How to produce such eggs is described in a new book "Forty-Nine Ways to Sell Eggs for More Money." The book may be secured by writing The Poultry Department of Purina Mills, St. Louis, Mo., and enclosing twenty-five cents.

Dates for Summer School Announced

Two Terms Will Be Held This Year at State University

FAYETTEVILLE.—Summer school will be in session at the University of Arkansas from June 9 to August 26, according to an announcement made Thursday by Dr. H. G. Hotz, dean of the College of Education and director of the Summer Schools.

The 1938 session will again consist of two terms of six weeks each. Classes for the first term will begin June 9 and close on July 19. The second term will begin on July 20 and close on August 25.

A faculty of more than 70 members will be employed and will include prominent educators from other institutions as well as from the University of Arkansas. A broad curriculum will be offered, Dean Hotz states, and it will consist of approximately 180 different courses.

New courses which will be featured include: graduate work in curriculum construction in public school art, public school music, health education, and business education; graduate home economics courses in related art; courses in physical education and athletic coaching for men; observation and demonstration teaching in the primary, intermediate, junior and senior high school grades.

88 Out of 100 Will Get Driver Reward

Plan Introduced in State in Effort to Cut Down Accidents

The majority of insured motorists in Hope and Hempstead counties are expected to earn the Safe Driver Reward of 15 per cent of a year's liability premium, amounting to $5.25 or more on a standard limits policy, according to a survey made by underwriters.

Safe drivers of private passenger cars will get a reward of $5.25 on policies covering low-priced cars while for the policies on medium-priced type cars the reward is $5.70. Since rates are the same as last year, the rewards will mean an actual reduction in cost of insurance.

If national averages hold in this territory, the survey pointed out, 88 out of 100 insured motorists will make these savings.

"For many years there has been a great need for a direct, individual appeal to the motorist to drive safely and we believe that the safe driver reward plan has that appeal," said William Leslie, General manager of the National Bureau.

"Our figures show that we can expect 88 per cent of the motorists insured by our member companies to earn the Safe driver reward. We believe it will stimulate all drivers to be more careful and drive safely, thereby reducing the number who have accidents. With fewer accidents there should be fewer losses. In this event insurance rates can be reduced even more than they are now under the plan and, most important, the frightful annual toll of automobile accidents will be lessened."

The safe driver reward plan was introduced in this state on February 1 by 32 stock companies members of the national bureau. Since that date all policies newly written or renewed contain the provision that if there is no loss within a year's time, the holder receives a return of 15 per cent of the premium. Safe drivers can have their reward either in cash or apply it as a renewal, the bureau has announced.

Cox Returns From Pontiac Meeting

Hope Man Returns From Dealer's Conference at Detroit

W. M. Cox of Hempstead Motor Co., local Pontiac dealer, has just returned from Detroit where he attended the March merchandising conference of the company.

Twenty-six dealers from the company's 26 zones were in attendance. They came from 22 states from coast to coast. These dealer conferences are a monthly feature of Pontiac's merchandising program.

C. P. Simpson, general sales manager of the company, conducted the meetings which dealt with all phases of selling. Heads of the various departments covered the business of advertising, sales promotion, service, parts and accessories and business management in detail.

In the afternoon H. J. Klingler, general manager; B. H. Anibal, chief engineer and P. H. MacGregor, general plant manager, joined the conference for a discussion of engineering and manufacturing.

"The conference was of unusual interest," said Mr. Cox, "as it provided an opportunity for an exchange of ideas among dealers from every part of the country with the factory heads. These meetings belong to the Pontiac dealers, and in no sense of the word do the factory executives monopolize the time. In reality they seem anxious to obtain the first-hand point of view of dealers whose job it is to sell the product."

"The various opinions offered were of unusual interest, and every man present was eager to pick up whatever he could that would be useful in the conduct of his business."

"I believe the trip was profitable for everyone and the time was well spent."

Today's Answers to CRANIUM CRACKERS

Problem on Page One

Consider the last question first. The answer is "Yes." The finder of lost or mislaid property must return it to the true owner. The answer to the former question cannot be given by a "Yes" or "No." The correct answer depends upon the facts not given in the problem. The rules of law that determine this are quite definite. If the package was LOST the porter does not have to give it to the railroad; however, if the property was MISLAIN he must do so. Property is lost when its owner has parted with it accidentally and does not at any time know the location of it. Property is mislaid when the owner intentionally places it where he can afterwards get it, but then forgets about it. In such a case the owner or occupant of the place where the property was found has a right to the property on the theory that he has custody of the property and owes a duty to the owner as a gratuitous bailee.

Skill Plus New Skillet Plumbs Depths of Tasty Tenderness

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NRA Service Staff Writer

Within the breast of veal lies hidden tenderness. But there is nothing like a modern skillet to bring it out. Breast of Veal with Prune Dressing (Serves 4 to 6)

One small breast of veal, 2 pounds, 1 cup cooked chopped prunes, 2 cups bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons melted shortening, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening, 4 medium sized sweet potatoes.

Have the butcher slit the veal breast to form a pocket. Wipe the meat with a clean cloth. Season well with salt and pepper. Mix the ingredients for the dressing and pack loosely into the cavity. Sew securely. Place the skillet with the fat over medium heat (350 degrees F.). When butter begins to brown, add meat and brown thoroughly on all sides. While meat is browning peel the potatoes and cut in halves. When meat is brown, pack the potatoes around meat, cover, and leave on medium heat until cover is too hot to touch and vapor begins to escape from under the cover. Reduce heat to low (300 degrees F.) and cook until tender--about 1 1/2 hours.

Dudget Dinner (Serves 4 to 6)

One pound lean beef, ground, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 1/2 small onion, chopped, 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 cups hot water, 1 cup canned tomato soup, 1 tablespoon chili sauce.

Mix beef with salt, pepper, onion. Shape into small cakes. Place skillet with fat over medium heat (350 degrees F.). When butter begins to brown add meat cakes and brown well on all sides. Remove cakes. Stir flour into drippings in pan, add water, soup and chili sauce and bring to a boil. Return cakes to pan and drop 1 tablespoon dumpling mixture on top of each. Cover and leave on medium heat until the cover is too hot to touch and vapor escapes from under the cover. Reduce heat to low (300 degrees F.) and cook until done--about 10 minutes.

Breast of veal, prunes and sweet potatoes cooked together on top of the stove in a new hard, sheet aluminum skillet not only cuts down fuel, shrinkage and cost of meat, but enhances the flavor.

Slingin' Sam Draws Attention in Camp

Famed Grid Star Is Making Bid for Third Base With Cardinals

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.--Professional football has lost its greatest rookie to baseball--maybe.

Slingin' Sam is a Gas House Gangster now.

Sammy Baugh, who sailed the Washington Redskins right into the pro championship with his freshman flipping exploits, has joined the young army trying to patch up the Cardinals infield.

The Texan has a strong arm with a baseball as well as a pigskin and an hour after he hit camp he was pegging 'em across the diamond from third to first.

He's never played pro baseball and it's doubtful if any thoroughly inexperienced recruit ever drew the attention from the hardened veterans that Baugh attracts at the St. Louis camp close by the bay here.

Diz Dean and Pepper Martin tromped across the locker room to greet Sammy, and Old Diz promptly wanted to know how he tossed that football. All around the dressing room baseball stars were gazing intently at this ace of another sport who had cast his lot with them. Here was a rookie worth knowing.

Sammy played semi-pro baseball in Texas and was quite a whiz, with a pretty potent bat, but he won't dominate baseball's pro circles as he overshadowed the footballers. He looks some years away from the majors.

The Cards may carry him along awhile for the publicity value and gate attraction of his name, but he'll probably wind up on one of the St. Louis chain-gang farms. Frankie Frisch has a lot of guys trying for third base--Art Garibaldi, Frenchy Bordagaray, Ott Stein, Terry Moore and perhaps Joe Stripp--and it's pretty certain that one of them will get the nod before Baugh.

The Gas House Gangsters are known for their inelegant hubbards and Bessie Frankie Frisch tops 'em all. Burned red as a beet, Frankie hobbles around the park in a dirty white sweatshirt, baggy baseball trousers and with a bedroom slipper on one foot and a white tennis shoe on the other. He broke some bones in his first fiddling around at the Cards' Winter Haven school, but the injury hasn't kept him from hopping about and prodding the players into constant activity.

While enjoying a brief squat on the bench, away from the scorching Florida sun, Frisch spied Mickey Owen cut in the outfield slouched in a comfortably lazy posture and immediately let out a roar. When Mickey came in on the dog trot he got a good dressing down, punctuated with typical Frischian phrases.

"What an example for our rookies," Frisch yelled. "The great Mickey Owen, the famous Cardinal catcher, the pepper-pot of the infield, asleep on his feet, loafing as a fly-shagger. Grab a mitt and catch some one, and get a move on you."

Mrs. Dean Sees to It That Diz Gets His Lunch

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.--(AP)--Mrs. Jerome Hanner Dean still keeps a close eye on Old Diz.

The other day Diz failed to show up with the rest of the Cardinals for lunch between morning and afternoon practice. So Mrs. Dean corralled the St. Louis trainer and sent him running to the club house for Diz.

"He'll probably be playing cards and drinking a bottle of beer for lunch. If I don't watch him he'll try to play ball again all afternoon without anything to eat."

Sure enough, Old Diz was playing pinocle, squatting on a baggage truck, attired in shorts and sweat shirt, the eccentric right-hander was in a game with Lon Warneke, St. Johnson and Brother Paul Dean.

And right by his side was a half-empty beer bottle.

Pictures now can be taken in absolute darkness, without even the aid of a flashlight.

Rice Week Begins, Special Sales On

Kroger Company Co-operating to Aid Arkansas Rice Farmers

In order to assist the Arkansas rice farmers, who raise the finest rice in the world, Kroger Stores all this week are specializing on Fancy Blue Rose Rice. It will be displayed in large quantities in our stores in such a way that every one coming near the store can't but be convinced that Kroger Stores are really assisting the Arkansas rice farmers.

During the past season the Kroger Company has been one of the largest distributors of rice in the world, having sold through our stores more than six million pounds. This would be approximately two hundred solid cardinals and if each hundred pound bag were placed end to end, this row would be more than thirty miles long.

These produce-consumer sales in which Kroger stores have been participating for the past year or two have certainly benefited the farmers. These sales have been placed on such items as Arkansas eggs, Arkansas apples, Arkansas peaches, Arkansas watermelons, Arkansas grapes, and now comes rice--one of the largest volume products of Arkansas--and Kroger stores are, as usual, doing their part to help.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers believe that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 9 quarts of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of aching backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your doctor for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes filter out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

He Experiments With Cardinals

First of a series from the spring training camps.

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Branch Rickey, the eminent baseball scientist, is doing altogether too much experimenting to suit his very practical manager, Franch Frisch.

Nineteen seasons on the firing line taught Frisch the value of experience and familiarity with a position, so his pain is not confined to chipped bones in his right foot. The world champion warrior has a severe headache as Rickey, at a time when the old Fordham Flash should be picking the St. Louis Cardinals of 1938, attempts to make:

Outfielder Don Padgett a catcher. Third Baseman Don Gutteridge a shortstop. Outfielder Terry Moore a third baseman, and—

Pitcher Mike Ryba a catcher.

The Red Birds haven't won a pennant in three years, which is the longest they've been out of first place since 1926, when they came down in front for the first time. They bagged five flags in nine campaigns, but have been going back the last three. They finished second in 1935, tied for the same spot in '36 and ran a poor fourth last term, 15 games behind the New York Giants, 12 in back of the Chicago Cubs, five to the rear of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and only one game ahead of the Boston Bees. They dropped seven of their last nine engagements.

Dizzy Dean

Johnny Mize

The big improvement this season is expected to be provided by a subdued Dizzy Dean. The incredible hick won only 13 games in 1937, developing arm trouble and being practically worthless after being struck on the great toe by a liner from Earl Tverill's bat in the all-star game.

Dean's Return Would Help

In the form that was his from 1932 to 1936, inclusive, Dean easily might make up from seven to 12 of the games the Gas House Gang finished in arrears in 1937, but Diz is just another of the Cardinal question marks.

If Dizzy's arm is all right, the blatant blokes in the red blazers should get ample pitching even if the removal of dead tissue from Paul Dean's shoulder lost May leaves him with a dead arm. If the two Deans come through, it goes without saying that the Cardinals will have an outstanding staff, for—

The ever steady Lon Warneke never looked better, and the corps is rounded out by Si Johnson, Bob Weiland, Bill McGee, and Max Macon, who copped 21 engagements for Columbus in 1937. Roy Henshaw, the little southpaw who has seen service with the Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers, and Ray Harrell, who is about due to locate control, also are on hand, together with a half dozen others brought in from the farms.

But the finest pitching in history would be sorely handicapped by the current crop of Red Bird catchers.

Frisch would like to string along with Padgett, but has little faith in the ability of as fine a teacher as Rickey to convert an outfielder so rapidly. Mickey Owen may do some day, but he is very young and still inclined to be rattlebrained.

The best of the lot probably is Herb Bremer, who finished with the Cardinals last fall after hitting .265 for the Columbus, Ga., club, but he is taking it easy following an appendectomy.

Sluggers Sure of Jobs

Outside of Pitchers Dizzy Dean and Warneke, only two Cardinals are assured of positions, and they are the great long-range hitters, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize.

Hard Luck Stuart Martin will do at second base as quickly as he recovers his full strength following a late-January attack of mumps.

Other candidates for second base are Jimmy Brown and Jimmy Bucher. Brown also plays considerable shortstop.

Brown probably will wind up at shortstop, if the fleet Gutteridge finds he job too difficult, which would leave an additional aspirant for third base, where there already are Joe Stripp and Art Garibaldi, the latter back from the Pacific Coast League. There also are Justin Stein, up from Columbus, and Terry Moore, if Rickey does through with his plan to bring the latter in from center field.

Jiminy Webb, up from Columbus, perhaps is the finest fielding shortstop in the party, but Frisch doesn't like the way "Skeeter" handles the shillalah despite the fact that he hit .290 in the American Association.

Enos Slaughter is the prize recruit of the 1938 Cardinals, and next to Medwick and Mize, is surest of a position. He's an outfielder, and gets over the terrain so rapidly that Frisch already is considering playing him in center. "Country" Slaughter's cool, .382 blazed the slugging trail for American Association batters last season.

Sorting Talent Is Problem

The Cardinals have plenty of outfielders, including Stanley Bordagaray and the veteran ohmy Conney.

Indeed, the Gas House Gang has its customary catload of material.

The problem is sorting it, locating a catcher capable of handling what easily might be speculative pitching, and developing a first rate second base combination.

Meanwhile, Frisch wishes that Rickey would quit experimenting with supposedly major league ball players, and let him get down to the task at hand.

Lithuania has the lowest cost of living figure of any nation of the world. Its costs dropped 55 per cent as compared with 1929.
